

Feeble Pulse,

pallor, fainting, smothering or sinking spells all point in the same direction—an impaired heart action. A heart that is weak or diseased cannot do full duty and the circulation of the blood is interfered with. There is a medicine that gives new strength to the heart, new power to the pulse and puts new color into cheek and lip.

"My pulse would jump and beat at a fearful rate and then drop almost to a stopping point. I could not rest at night, feet swelled and had severe pain in chest. Took Dr. Miles' Heart Cure six weeks and was cured!"
T. H. JONES, Pittsburg, Texas.

STARTING THE FURROWS.

If the First Are Crooked It Is Hard to Make Any Straight Ones Afterward.

Good plowing requires a knowledge of the principles of soil turning, and requires experience in doing the work. If the first furrows are run carelessly or incorrectly it will be found exceedingly difficult to do a good job. The plowing of old fields is less difficult than the plowing of new ones, for the reason that the old fields have landmarks that are easily understood. This is, of course, true only if the plowing of former years has been correct. It is a somewhat difficult task to turn straight furrows across a new field with nothing to serve as a guide but some object on the further side. The skilled farmer should not trust the turning of the first furrows to the boy or the unskilled hired hand. If the first furrows are crooked it is difficult to make any straight ones afterward. The best plowman will find it difficult to correct the errors of his predecessors. Even the skilled plowman will not find it an easy matter to run the first furrow straight ahead of him and keep his team well under control. If the field is to be plowed on the "lands" plan, then there is an added reason why the best plowman on the farm should take the matter in hand, for there will be several "first" furrows to plow. The first furrows are the patterns of all that are to follow them. Landmarks set up on opposite sides of the field will assist the plowman in making his furrow straight whether he be skilled or a novice.—Farmers' Review.

LIFTING ARRANGEMENT.

For Removing Bed or Ladders from the Farm Wagon It Is Said to Be Unequaled.

A good lifting arrangement for removing bed or ladders from the wagon is herewith illustrated. To the joints of the left over the barn door, at proper distances, are chained two pulleys. Over each of these pulleys a half-inch rope, one end of which is connected with a stretcher large enough to slip over the end of the wagon bed. The upper crossbar of the stretcher may simply have a deep notch at each end, just wide enough to receive the rope. A knot in the latter just below the stick serves to hold it in place. The lower bar is a triple longer and has the rope securely tied at each end. Supposing now that the stretchers are sufficient ly low to receive the bed from the wagon, the rope passes from one pulley toward the side of the barn floor, then through a hole near the top of the windlass or revolving pillar, as shown in the engraving, and out again to the other pulley.

The windlass may consist of a six-inch cylindrical post which receives the rope near its top, while at a convenient height from the floor are holes for the insertion of levers used in turning. The wagon being driven into place, the stretchers are slipped over each end of the bed, which is then quickly and easily drawn to the top by revolving the windlass. When sufficiently high one of the levers is left in place with the outer end resting against some upright timber of the barn frame and thus holds it secure. For hay ladders, instead of the lower bar of the stretcher, the rope may terminate in a ring, which slips over an iron hook. These hooks are permanently fastened to the ladders at suitable points where they will not interfere with anything else.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Importance of Alfalfa.

Alfalfa is rapidly growing in importance, and becoming a considerable factor in the enlargement of the meat supply, largely taking the place of corn in feeding west of the Mississippi valley. The area is enlarging, and the best cutting of this year is very large. Horses thrive on it with little grain; cattle fatten on it with a finish of corn, and in its use the hog has become a hay-eating animal. It is, to an increasing extent, taking the place of range grasses in the economy of the cattle industry, and the change will cause an enlargement rather than a decrease of the meat supply.

Feed Corn on the Farm.

A heavy shipment of corn from the farm is nothing to be proud of. It is an evidence of poor farming methods. Annual assessment levied on the fertility of the soil, and the proceeds shipped away in that form, is ruinous. We are a meat-eating people. The grain is but a small part of the corn-craze. When corn is sold, the stalks are in many instances worse than wasted. If the corn crop is fed on the farm and its equivalent sold in beef and dairy products, the soil is continually increasing in fertility.—Farm and Home.

Of health, we say, of a perfectly healthy woman, and it is a picture everyone loves to look upon. All the pictures of all the artists who have ever painted the glory and beauty of womanhood, are only copies and imitations of this picture.

Never artist mixed a color on his palette that can be linked with the hues which tint a woman's cheeks, neck and bosom. Why should this charm be sacrificed to sickness?

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every five minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers. They filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidneys.

Kidney troubles cause quick or uneasy heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle by mail. Send a postal note for a free sample bottle telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.
